April 16, 1930 - June 3, 2013

Andrew William Morris was born on April 16, 1930 in Blairsville, Pennsylvania. His parents were Andrew H. Morris and Ruth Cora Hoffman Morris. He had one younger brother, Bob Morris.

“Andy” passed away at home in Rowland Heights, California on June 3, 2013 at the age of 83.

He succumbed to complications of an ischemic stroke.

Andy lived a long and full life. Though he suffered a lengthy, gradual bout with Alzheimer’s Disease, he is remembered as someone who always did his best to greet everyone he met with a friendly, happy smile. He always tried to keep in good spirits, even as he fought the effects of loss of hearing, speech, and memory in his later years.

Andy grew up in the city of Latrobe in western Pennsylvania and married his high school sweetheart, Joanne in 1949.

In 1962, at the age of 32, he decided to move his wife and three sons to Hacienda Heights, California in order to provide them with a better future.

Andy enjoyed spending lots of time with his family, playing golf, and studying his family genealogy. He was also a pretty good cook.

He is survived by, and missed by, his three sons and their wives:

Andy R. and Terry, Jeff and Val, and Bruce and Shirley. Andy also leaves grandchildren, Riley, Jena, Dean, Eugene and Dana, and great grandsons, Aaron, Brody and Griffin.
