“ Christopher, you were so many things to me in this life that “childhood friend” doesn’t even begin to cover it. We’ve been Best friends since we were four years old and although there were times where we had miles between us there was never any distance. We might not have been the type of friends to tell everything to the other, but we knew we could always tell anything to the other and never receive judgement. When I needed you, you were there. When you needed me, I was there. We saw each other through all of the phases in each others lives and our friendship never wavered. Too many inside jokes I wouldn’t even know where to begin. I would not be the person I am today without you. I am so grateful for our friendship, We always told each other how much we loved each other, how much we meant to each other, and I am forever grateful that there was never anything left unsaid. Really were the best friend anybody could have ever asked for. Until we meet again.

“ My brother. No words will ever be able to describe how much I miss you. I will always cherish our memories of literally EVERYTHING we’ve done together. Drive around the block just one more time to let our favorite song finish, our duet journey song, our Wendy Wednesday’s with mom and Derek when dad was in school. Our attempts to sneak you back into the house when you would forget your key. Our talks for hours about nothing and laughing anyway. Most of all I will cherish that my big brother was also my best friend forever. I love you big brother forever and always❤️
